New homes built on Waterford Street

By Abbey Hudson

Waterford Street in Edinboro has two new homes thanks to a father-son duo.

John Ponsoll and his son, Casey, have torn down two homes on Waterford Street and rebuilt them this summer.

The two duplexes are student rentals, and both are expected to be complete in August in time for the college students to move in.

Casey Ponsoll recently purchased the house at 105 Waterford St. There weren't any students living in it when he purchased it.

John Ponsoll has owned the home at 122 Waterford St. for a long time. Students were living in it before it was torn down.

"We were putting a lot of work into 122 Waterford St. Every winter, we were having problems. It's an older house. The plumbing and the heating

Franklin Township unveils new website

By Abbey Hudson

The new Franklin Township website is officially live.

Residents of the township have been complaining about the lack of an updated website for a while. The previous website was defunct after the former secretary quit unexpectedly.

Township Secretary Ramona Junkins has been working to establish a new website for several months.

"The development of our website was partially funded by a government grant from the Erie County Gaming Revenue Authority that was awarded to the Erie Area Council of Governments," she said.

The new website can be found at www.franklintownship.info. It features meeting minutes, forms, ordinances, elected officials and even the Second Class Township Code. "The company that created the webpage is Erie Multimedia," she said.

Greg Windle, from Erie Multimedia, helped Junkins with the website. Junkins said that she will update the website when new information becomes available, but that it will take time.

Some of the information on the new website was transferred over from the former website.

Junkins has even made a spot for businesses in Franklin Township. There is information for auto services, restaurants, maple products and attractions.

"I'm doing this for the community. I'm open to suggestions. I don't know all the businesses that are in the township," she said.

Email addresses for all staff members and supervisors have also changed.

The following is a complete list of new email addresses:

- Secretary - office@franklintownship.info
